

Evolving Earth Law

Co-creating a New Legal Paradigm

Friday 24th & Saturday 25th May 2013, Findhorn, Scotland

Despite the proliferation of environmental laws and treaties, global ecological destruction continues apace. No one benefits from the 'power over' paradigm that currently prevails. What will it take to create a more life-affirming approach to law - in service to the whole Earth community?

Using recent innovations in systemic constellations and dialogue processes, our intention is to reveal and transform entrenched dynamics, working with:

- live case studies with environmental groups;
- the potential for change in our legal system, from adversarial to collaborative / retribution to healing; and
- the hidden dynamics that prevent the rights of nature from becoming mainstream law.

Our legal system affects us all and is a product of our collective consciousness. Whether you are a lawyer, environmentalist or simply interested in our legal system and its potential for change, please join us for this consciousness-shifting weekend.

'Voices for the Earth: A Workshop in Community Eco-Stewardship', follows this event on Sunday 26th May. These are stand-alone events, however participants will gain most benefit from attending all 3 days.

This is the inaugural event of the International Centre for Wholistic Law, which is based in the Findhorn Foundation Community in Scotland. Wholistic law approaches law-making, legal practice and dispute resolution from a paradigm of healing, restoration and reparation, in alignment with the natural universal principles that govern the inter-existence of all life.

Workshop facilitators:

Stephen Busby has worked internationally for over 25 years to help people, professions and organisations fulfil their higher potential. He has a coaching and healing practice and offers workshops and trainings in whole-field skills, inner-leadership and innovation.
